Nominations announced for the PLC Awards – The best of the UK to be recognised

The strength of businesses across the UK in the quoted companies sector outside the FTSE100 has been recognised in the nominations for the 30th annual PLC Awards.

This year's shortlist sees companies vying for top spot in a number of categories of the PLC Awards, sponsored by PwC and produced by Ford Sinclair Ltd, which were established 30 years ago to celebrate the best in the mid-market business sector and underline its importance to the UK economy. The companies shortlisted were selected from a raft of high quality entries spanning the UK.

Over 1,000 guests, including quoted companies, investment banks, fund managers, investment analysts, and corporate advisers, will be welcomed to the awards dinner, which takes place on Thursday, 3 March 2016.

David Snell, partner, PwC said:

“Businesses in the mid-market are key drivers of the UK economy. As such, these companies will be the ones ideally placed to take advantage of improving economic conditions and drive growth that benefits all stakeholders. These awards showcase the very best of the mid-market and to be short-listed from such a large number of contenders is highly impressive.”

“My congratulations to all those shortlisted and those that go on to win on the night.”
